

JCK

Plenty To See Here: The Jewelry Situation At Salon Art + Design

 By Amy Elliott | November 09, 2021

On Thursday, Salon Art + Design, the fair produced by Sanford L. Smith + Associates, returns to New York City for its 10th anniversary edition. Spanning vintage, modern, and contemporary categories, the Salon will gather nearly 50 leading dealers and galleries from around the world in the city's beloved Park Avenue Armory.

With a few exceptions, the exhibitors largely comprise specialists in the world of fine arts and interior design, but, as in previous years, jewelry and jewelry-adjacent objects are a natural complement to this milieu as well as a magnet for the collector who appreciates aesthetics and craftsmanship on multiple levels.

The Colonel's Room is an immersive experience of gems and minerals as imagined by John Greytak of the Montana-based Studio Greytak. An homage to Montana's natural wonders, which inspire all of Studio Greytak's sculpture and furnishings, the Universe collection takes center stage. The series explores the mysteries of the natural world—earth, sky, sea, and space—through gems and minerals, from a bowl made of crystalline blue aragonite and calcite to twin wall mirrors made in multi-ringed slices of agate.

Erosion side table in cast bronze and quartz crystal, Studio Greytak