

New & Noteworthy: Check out this curated group of products

Limited-edition goods and whimsical designs showcase this week's New & Noteworthy.

Lauren Roses // Product Editor • October 18, 2022

New & Noteworthy is a new weekly series showcasing a select number of products that hit the HAT editors' mailboxes during the week and catch our eye. This week on New & Noteworthy we have a chair from Edition 4 by Studio Paolo Ferrari, a lamp from Studio Greytak, limited edition urns from Ngala Bespoke, a bench from House of Leon and Drapery hardware from Deco & Deco. Let us know what new products you think will make the biggest impact in the coming months—we want to hear from you!

Recalling his time in Montana throughout his youth, Studio Greytak founder John envisioned golden wheat fields below a harvest moon when designing this deeply personal piece. The Harvest Moon Lamp features a hand-blown glass orb, softly illuminated and rising over a golden landscape of smooth citrine and a swirling agate wall. Named for the full moon that coincides with the Autumnal Equinox, this is the perfect piece to usher in the changing season.